Bifissurinella cornifera sp.n. and Bifissurinella cf. triangularis Poignant et Ubaldo, 1973, are described from the Middle Miocene of the Central Paratethys. New morphological features are reported in the two species which may support the assignment of Bifisurinella to the Bryoza. The generic assignment of the described species is discussed.

Key words: Taxonomy, morphology, Bryoza (Bifisurinella), Middle Miocene, Central Paratethys.
